Brazil Coffee Weather - Cooler Conditions To Shift Further Northward
By Drew Lerner

Kansas City, August 11 (World Weather, Inc.) - Cooling was noted in southern Brazil coffee production areas Thursday and a few showers preceded the cooler conditions in Rio de Janeiro and southern Sul de Minas. The cooler air will push further to the north today and Friday, but no threateningly cold conditions are expected. Warming will return during the weekend and early next week with another round of cooling expected late next week and into the following weekend. There is no risk of frost for the next ten days and significant rainfall will be extremely rare, although sporadic light showers will occur from time to time.

BRAZIL

Rain Wednesday was mostly confined to Rio de Janeiro and some neighboring areas of both southern Sul de Minas and northeastern Sao Paulo, according to both satellite imagery and surface weather observations. Most of the significant rain occurred outside of official weather reporting sites, but the coverage and intensity of rainfall was mostly light. Rio de Janeiro reported no more than 6 millimeters while satellite imagery suggested a few 10-20 millimeter amounts may have occurred to the west into southernmost Sul de Minas.

Temperatures trended cooler Wednesday with highs confined to the middle and upper teens in some eastern and southern Sao Paulo locations. Most coffee areas from northern Parana to southernmost Sul de Minas and southern Rio de Janeiro had afternoon temperatures in the 20s Celsius. Afternoon temperatures further north ranged from upper 20s through the middle 30s with the hottest conditions from northern Minas Gerais to central Bahia where readings peaked at 36.

A few showers may impact portions of Brazil's coffee production region during the next full week. However, daily coverage and amounts will be too light to induce any threat of premature flowering. Daily rainfall will vary from a trace to 6 millimeters most often with some potential for greater amounts in southern Sul de Minas, Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro Monday into Tuesday and again late next week.

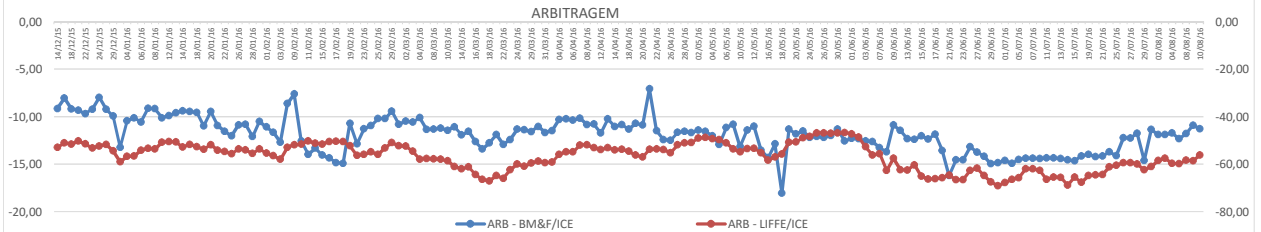

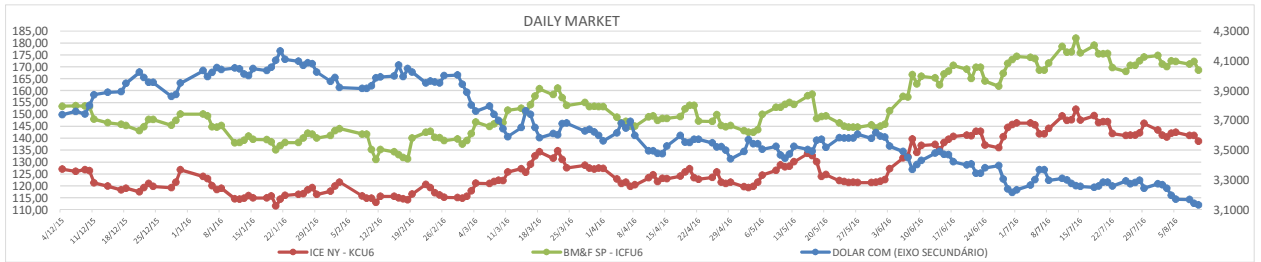

Cooler air will move a little further to the north today and Friday. Highs will be in the 20s in most areas from northern Parana to southern Sul de Minas and Rio de Janeiro with a couple of upper teens in Sao Paulo. High temperatures further north will be in the upper 20s and lower 30s with extremes of 35 or 36 today. Lowest temperatures at night will be in the upper single digits and teens with a slight chance for extremes of 4 or 5 Friday and Saturday mornings in the traditionally coolest areas of Sul de Minas. No afternoon temperatures above 30 will occur south of central Minas Gerais.
