Next five days:
Cold front between São Paulo and Paraná was responsible for rainfall of less than 5 mm in the Maringá region in the morning.

In the coming hours, the rain will migrate to the coast of the Southeast Region and should not reach other producing areas.

Over the weekend, the temperature will decline, but without potential for frost, because the mass of cold air with 1029 millibar will be by sea and by the presence of jet stream over the producing areas.
