Coffee Market Report

The U.S.A. based markets returned to work yesterday, following the Christmas long weekend, but with the London markets and most of the leading European based trade, remaining on holiday. Thus, with many of the international trade off the field of play for the day, one might not see much significance from the direction taken by the exchanges in operation for the day yesterday.

The global markets are due to return to work today and to trade for the rest of the week, ahead of the New Year holiday on Monday next week, which shall see the markets enjoy another long weekend. This holiday that follows this week's short week shall most likely see many market players taking advantage of the situation and a few days off this week for a bridging holiday week, to possibly result in lackluster trade from the physical sectors of the commodity markets. But one might expect to see with the year end to the fore, some active book squaring activity on the part of the funds coming into play for the commodity markets, over the next couple of days of trade.

The March 2018 to March 2018 contracts arbitrage between the London and New York markets broadened yesterday, to register this at 44.54 usc/Lb., while this equates to 36.45% price discount for the London Robusta coffee market.

The Certified washed Arabica coffee stocks held against the New York exchange registered no change yesterday; to register these stocks at 1,965,815 bags. There was meanwhile also no change to the number bags pending grading for this exchange, to register these pending grading stocks at 51,888 bags.
