Coffee Market Report

Brazil's and the world's largest coffee cooperative Cooxupé have reported that with their members having already harvested 66.4% of their new crop coffees as at Friday last week, that this is the quickest harvest that they have experienced over at least the last eight years. They meanwhile with the new crop harvest peaking, have estimated the with the expectations of a smaller Brazil arabica coffee crop this year, that their members shall bring in a 9.2% smaller crop this year, which they foresee to be approximately 7.6 million bags.

Brazil is due to experience a few days of colder weather this week, but most foresee that this is not going to be frost threatening weather and this seemingly had its impact upon speculative sentiment within the volatile New York market yesterday, which experienced a later in the day sell off. Followed in a more sedate manner, by selling pressure within the London market.

The September to September contracts arbitrage between the London and New York markets narrowed yesterday, to register this at 42.00 usc/Lb., while this equates to 39.79% price discount for the London Robusta coffee market. The Certified washed Arabica coffee stocks held against the New York exchange were seen to decrease by 3,034 bags yesterday; to register these stocks at 2,364,214 bags. There was meanwhile a larger in number 12,140 bags increase to the number of bags pending grading for this exchange; to register these pending grading stocks at 12,140 bags.
